JUNE 21

This is the hinge day of the seasons. Today the yearly tide of light reaches its flood. Tomorrow it will begin the long rollback to the dark days of December. I heard robins singing this morning shortly after four, Daylight Saving Time, and they are still singing at nine o'clock at night. A robin uses up all the daylight, even on this longest day of the year.

In the later sunset of this final day of spring, my wife and I walk to the bay. As we stand there, in the quiet of the evening and with the smell of the sea all around us, a faint mist forms in the air. Twilight here is doubly impressive for we are face to face with twin mysteries - the mystery of the sea and the mystery of the night.

Thus ends another spring - rich in the small everyday events of the earth as all springs are for those who find delight in simple things. The institutions of men alter and disintegrate. But in the endless repetitions of nature - in the recurrence of spring, in the coming of new birds to sing the ancient songs, in the continuity of life and the web of the living - here we find the solid foundation that underlies at once the past, the present, and the future.

TAKEN FROM "FROM SPRING TO SUMMER"

BY EDWIN WAY TEALE

Dear Graduates of 1973

Your class has been a unique and distinctive one and, in line with the new thinking that seems prevalent today in all walks of life, you have been very vocal about both real and fancied wrongs. I commend you highly for your decision to stand up for your rights and express your feelings - loud and clear. However, freedom of expression also entails responsibilities and a willingness to listen to the other fellow's point of view. Voltaire expressed this best when he said, "I disapprove of what you say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it." Remember that there are at least two sides to every point of view and when there is a meeting of the minds, there can and usually is an equitable solution for all concerned.

The one thing that distinguishes man from the lower animals is his ability to communicate and hence, he can pass on his experiences and learnings to those who come after him. That is the reason you are now enjoying the highest standard of living that has ever existed and have more conveniences than were ever dreamed possible, and who knows what the future will bring. This ability to communicate is the answer to all of the problems facing civilization. Keep this in mind always as you face those difficult teenager years where you are no longer a child, nor yet an adult with the maturity and judgment that come with experience, guidance and education. In one way I envy you because you have ahead of you those formative and challenging years where you and your peers will determine the destiny of mankind. Hopefully, you will do a better job that our generation did in solving the multiplicity of problems that face us - racism, poverty, lack of housing, drug abuse, crime in the streets, and degradation of the human spirit. Probably the solution to the ills of mankind can be found in the tenet that is a part of all the great religions and is sometimes known as the Golden Rule, "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." If you follow that maxim, those thrilling, exciting, challenging years of High School and further education will be worthwhile, and you will derive from them an inner peace and satisfaction that comes from treating your fellow man with dignity and respect.

Finally, the entire staff and I extend to each and every member of the class of 1973 our best wishes for the future and we say, "Good Luck."

Sincerely yours,
Walter M. Kritzberger
Principal

Irene:
Good luck & best wishes.

"You put your left foot forward"

"Are you kidding?"

"Einy, Miny, Miney, Mo"

"Most untypical"

"Now, i wonder"

"Who, me?"

"A face in the crowd"

"Hold everything!"

"Perfection"

"Deep in thought"

"Who's daydreaming?"

"You wouldn't dare/ Would you?"

"Oh no! What did I do this time?"

"Bottoms up!"

"Gee, the view is good from here."

"Geronimo!"

"Naah!"

Irene,
 Good luck at East. Nice knowing you

Irene,
good luck & have fun over the summer
Tom

Irene,
It's all the boys
lived in the sea
what a good swimmer
you would be!
It's been really nice knowing
you. Have fun in future years.
I never thought I'd say
this → Luv, Debbie

Good luck

Irene,
I'm writing Skinny so you'll feel at home.
(Ha, Ha)
Well, good luck and I hope to see you in the summer.
If I don't, have fun and I'll I do have fun anyway because I'm a fun-loving person, just like you.
